Name of the activity: Save Water- Conserve Water

Date of the activity: 23/12/2017

Objective of the activity: To aware the people about the utilization of water.

No. of participants (Student):52

Report

Water is the most essential element for our survival. We can't imagine our life without water. We don't understand the value of a thing available to us for free. Therefore it is necessary to charge money for water as in the case of electricity.

School of Life & Basic Sciences organized an awareness programme among people in residential colony named as Indira Gandhi Nagar, Khatipura and CPI colony near Jagatpura, Jaipur. This program was coordinated by Prof. R.S. Lokhande, School of Life & Basic Sciences. The activities of this program were supervised by Dr. Hosiyar Singh, Mr. Sunil Kumar Sharma and Dr. K.P.Singh. A quiz and essay writing contests were also conducted in school related to different water issues in the society.

Faculty members emphasized on the utility of water by taking some examples. In the various areas of the Rajasthan, people may be seen in long queues before the water tanks for their turns for a bucket of water. Now the time has come to conserve water for bad days. During the rainy season, when there is rain in abundance, there are floods; we must devise methods to store that water. That water can be saved for such drought like situations in various states in the country. The scientists and the people must be encouraged to make inventions which can help us to conserve water at lower prices.
